Just Like New

A Needy Knee

by Franette Armstrong

Her name was Lola. She was a pitbull. And for many people, that would have been all they needed to know.

But for Riannon and her two kids, Lola was the Copa in their Cabana. Since the day two years ago when they first saw the little puppy at a shelter adoption event, it has been a perfect match. "Lola has always been a high-energy, up-for-anything dog, then suddenly she started limping."

Riannon took her to a local vet who gave her an anti-inflammatory but over the next two weeks Lola's back leg worsened until she couldn't put any weight on it. X-rays revealed a torn ligament and an estimate for the TPLO surgery to repair it would cost about $6500.

"We didn't have that kind of money and of course, with Lola being a pit bull, the first suggestion was we should put her down. The kids and I were heartbroken and hysterical."

Riannon called her sister who told her about Paws In Need and then called Karen Simon who kicked the Just Like New program into high gear, searching for a veterinarian who would do the surgery at a deep discount. They found their angel at Silicon Valley Veterinary Services in San Jose. Riannon applied for a Credit Care card online to cover two thirds of the new price and Just Like New handled the rest of the cost.

"Dr. Melissa Arbaugh rebuilt Lola's knee and she is amazing. Even though it was a long drive for us from Dublin, I wouldn't take Lola anywhere else now." Lola still has a month or two of recovery before she can run and jump again, so she's sedated while the knee is healing, but the prognosis is good.

"Paws In Need not only saved Lola, but she saved us too," Riannon said. "Lola's so lovable, I don't know what we'd do without her."

Lola's got a zipper on her back knee now, but that should fade with the memory of her injury.

Check Out What's New at the Paws In Need Boutique Store

Volunteer Sharon Alvarez has recently rearranged the Boutique store full of unique animal-themed gifts for people and pets in the lobby of Feline Medical Center, 3160 Santa Rita Road, Pleasanton. You can easily spot the new items now located on the hutch within the store area. All proceeds goes towards the Just Like New program which help community animals with a medical need to become just like new again.

Livermore's Farmer's Market

On Aug. 13th, led by volunteer Dana Daley, Paws In Need was well represented at the Livermore's Farmer's Market. Many dropped by to find out more about Paws In Need and the work we do for the animals in our community and some even gave a much appreciated donation.

Paws On the Patio

by Cindy Ferrin

Recently while lunching at the Danville Station Firehouse Bar and Grill, 340 Hartz Avenue, Danville, I spotted a Yappy Menu on the table (www.firehousebarandgrille.com). This restaurant is dog friendly and now has food on the menu for your canine companion. The dog I was with gave a "paws-up" to the Chopped Chicken with Carrots and Brown Rice option. So next time you want a place to dine with your canine friend, give it a try to see if your dog will give the Yappy Menu options a "paws-up" too.
